Colas SA

(Societe de la Raffinerie de Dunkerque)

Colas SA is the owner of the former Exxon/ Total refinery at Dunkirk. This refinery operates under the name SRD (Societe de la Raffinerie de Dunkerque) and its feedstock is currently produced according to the procedure and processes that were employed under Exxon and Total ownership. Furthermore, the employees remain those that were engaged by the Exxon joint venture.

As an independent entity, SRD sells its basestocks through its owner Colas SA. Colas wishes to sell the Group I basestocks and it recognises that continued adherence to the standards required of Exxon and Total is an important factor in the ongoing success of the operation.

To this end, SRD has signed a Letter of Conformance with the requirements of ATIEL and has been included in its list of approved basestock manufacturers alongside companies such as Shell, Exxon, Total and Kuwait Oil.

This means therefore that, when used in accordance with the ATIEL Code of Practice for the manufacture of lubricants, Colas basestocks are equivalent to those of the Major oil companies included on the schedule.

For details of the ATIEL guidance, please visit <http://www.atiel.eu/>.
